He started off with a run of 22 in his first inning, and then, after scoring a single point in his second inning, made a beautiful run of 36, his position piay during this run being an interesting exhibition. Townsend has apparently lost confidence in himself. He was unable to control his cue ball and missed a number of easy plays. He handled his cue in a listless manner that betrayed an utter lack of spirit. Poggenburg gave an excellent exhibition of his mastery of the cue and executed many difficult shots with ease. C. Renzland proved his superiority and won the bout after four minutes and two seconds.

Robert Bonnett, Jr., of the National T. V., the champlon of the 105-pound wrestlers, was found overweight and was accordingly pitted against Edward Harris, of the St. George A. C., at 115 pounds. After six minutes of very hard work, during which Harris wrestled entirely on the defensive, the referce ordered another bout. Harris again worked on the defensive. After a short wrestle Bonnett caught Harris with a half Nelson on the back and held him in chancery for the rest of the bout. The judges could not decide, and after a one-minute rest ordered another bout. The decision was eventually given to Bonnett, on the ground of his having done the most work.

The sixth boxing bout was between P. E. Sheridan, of the Pastime Club, and John Hannon, of the Union A. C., at 135 pounds. Sfieridan opened hostilities, but soon found that he was up agailast not only a clever but game opponent. Refore the close of the first round Hannon landed a terrific right upper cut, which sent Sheridan to his corner in a groggy condition. Hannon continued to hold the advantage and got in several very hard and telling blows. In the final round it was give and take, with a slight advantage for Hannon, who did most of the leading and effective landing. The indees could not agree on a decision, and the referce declared Hannon who did most of the Pastimes, at 135 pounds. Snee, although at a disadvantage in height and reach, went at Corbett and landed almost at will. The Brocklyn lad was game and forced the fighting, but was foolish enough to commit a foul in the second round, which lost him the decision.

The meeting of the two-year-olds upset cap, which is to be decided on the opening Inst year, when the match was played at St. Paul. In yesterday's competition each game was seventeen heads.

The six rinks were at work at 10 in the morning, and the curiers were hard at it until late at night. New York City clubs won every game in the first seven rinks played. Among the defeated were the visitors from Utica, Lackawanna, Pa.; Jersey City and Long Island City. Three local rinks, the American, Empire City and John O'Groat, were also among the beaten seven.
